M2 Management Stratégique et Changement (MSC)

Master's degree

Specialisation Strategic Management

Enrolment type

Formation initiale

Language(s) of instruction

French

The MSC Master’s program aims to train future managers and consultants specializing in the design and delivery of projects, particularly digital initiatives, that act as drivers of strategic transformation in all types of organizations and require both technical and people-centered support.

Building on M1 MSC, M2 MSC prepares future managers, project leaders, and consultants who specialize in designing and delivering projects that drive operational change and strategic transformation across all types of organizations. The curriculum is designed to consolidate the foundations laid in M1 in both strategic and operational management (strategy and CSR, people management and leadership, project team management, change management, process and complex project management, innovation, digital transformation, information systems, and international/intercultural management). In addition, courses in English, project management, and research methods, together with the implementation of team projects, the 6th month internship placements, and the completion of a rigorous research thesis, equip students with practical know-how as well as strong analytical and interpersonal skills that significantly enhance their professionalization and employability.

Présentation

Skills

In general, the knowledge and skills students develop throughout the programme will enable them to:

- Develop and deploy a responsible strategic vision under uncertainty
- Lead multicultural teams and develop leadership
- Manage overall (enterprise-wide) performance
- Manage complex projects and drive change
- Lead digital transformation and master its tools
- Communicate effectively in professional settings
- Frame and address an applied research question in strategic management

Objectives

Supporting a company through strategic transformation, the improvement of working methods and processes, the roll-out of digital tools, or the evolution of its information systems requires expertise in project management methods, change management, and strategy & organisation consulting.

The MSC Master’s programme therefore aims to train specialists in strategic change management and project management, prepared to take on cross-functional roles (change manager, project manager, PMO, product owner, scrum master, consultant, product manager, HR or marketing project officer) within a global context of environmental, social, and digital transformation of organisations.

Target Audience and Entry Requirements

The majority of M2 MSC come from M1 MSC standard track and are admitted by right. However, admission is also possible for students who have completed an M1 in the Strategic Management major, other M1 programs within the Graduate School of Economics & Management, and external candidates, following a selective review of the application and an interview.

A minimum B1 level in English (CEFR) is expected (and C1 in French for international students). Submission of a Score IAE-Message is appreciated.

General expectations:
- Successful completion—with strong mastery—of M1 courses related to the strategic management of organizations.
- One or more internships/apprenticeships, and participation in projects and/or group activities.
- A clear career plan consistent with the skills developed and the program’s professional outcomes.
- Intellectual curiosity, critical thinking, and a genuine interest in research in strategic management and the scientific method.
