Présentation

Skills

Understand and measure the risks to which banks are exposed.

Objectives

The Master of Finance provides students with operational competencies, based on a cross-disciplinary foundation of economics and management, leading to mastery of quantitative techniques and an understanding of the economic environment of finance. At the end of their curriculum, students are competent in the specialised professions covered by the programme, and able to grasp the complexity of processes in the financial sector. The proposed curriculum is reinforced by innovative teaching tools, support from lecturers active in their host laboratories and professional contributors from the financial sector, and by complementary certifications drawn up with a view to careers.
