The Master in Production, Logistics and Purchasing Management (GPLA) trains future managers in Purchasing, Supply Chain, and Quality Management, ready to operate in a global business environment. Offered through work-study programs, it combines academic excellence with professional immersion, preparing graduates for both operational and strategic management positions.

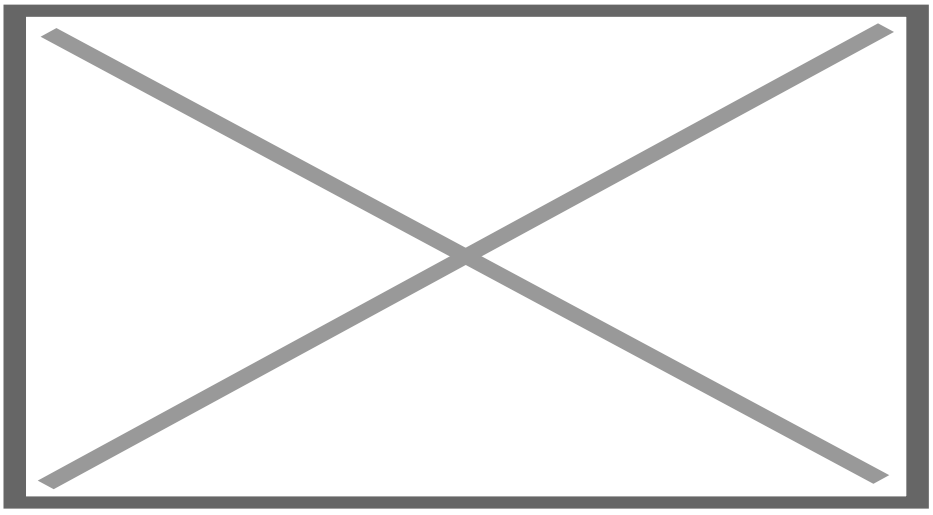

The two-year Master's program includes a common core in the first year and progressive specialization in purchasing, quality, and logistics.
Through apprenticeships, students gain hands-on experience while developing their managerial and analytical skills in international contexts.
